Find your magazine by going to the E-Journal list

- On the library home page, click on the e-journals link (in the QuickLinks section).

- Enter the name of the journal and click on “Search”.

- Click on the link to Academic Search Premiere.

Note: The journal may be available from a number of different online sources. In this example, there are several places to get the journal online. Check the coverage dates on the left to see which source covers what years.

This will take you to the journal contents page. From here, you have 2 options:

1. Search within this publication
2. Browse the table of contents

Search within this Publication

Click on the “Search within this Publication” link.
Enter your search terms. This will restrict your search results to just articles in this publication.

Browse the Table of Contents

If you want to browse the table of contents of a specific issue, you can select a volume listed on the side.

Click on the + sign next to the volume to select a specific issue.
Start with a magazine or magazines in Academic Search Premier.

Access ASP from the course page or the database list on the library home page.

- At the top of the search screen, click on “Publications.”

- Type in the name of your magazine in the “browse” search box and click on “Browse.” (1)
- Select your magazine from the list by clicking the checkbox. (2)
- Click on “Add.” (3)

- Your magazine is “added” to the search box

You can add another magazine to the search box by following the same steps:
- Type name of magazine in the browse search, select it, and add.
You can add as many magazines as you like. The “or” connecting them means you’re searching for everything in the magazines you select.

- Click on “Search” when you’re done
- Your magazines are in the first search box.
- Type your topic in the next search box and click on “Search” (In this search example there are 41 results for “civil rights” in Atlantic Monthly and Harper’s Magazine.)

You can browse the results, or you can reduce the number by clicking on one of the subject terms to the left. Clicking on “Civil rights” reduces the number of results.
Start with the topic and see what magazines have articles

Type in your topic into the search box and click on “Search”

In the Narrow Results frame at the left:

- Click on “Magazines”
- “Open” the Publication box by clicking on and look to see if any of the magazines you’re interested in are listed. You may need to also click on “More”.

- If your magazine isn’t listed in the Publications menu on the left, type the magazine name into the search box, and change “Select a Field” to “SO Journal Name.” You can only add one magazine in this type search.
Saving to a folder for printing later

- Choose Add to Folder from results list.
- OR Click on the Quick Preview button to see the abstract and add from there.

Printing from the folder

- “Open” the Folder by selecting “Folder View” in the “Folder has items” box.
- Select the articles and click on the icon.
- Change “Standard Field Format” to “Brief Citation” and Uncheck HTML Full Text for a list to turn in. Email results with full text to yourself.
