THE OREGON WEEKLY UNION,

VOL. 1.

CORVALLIS, OREGON, SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 23, 1869.

GREAT DEBATE IN THE UNITED STATES Senate.

February 21, 1869.

SPEECH OF SENATOR A. DOUGLAS.

Of course I know that some question-doors as to the nature of neutrality as well as to what may be properly termed nationaism, are yet standing, and I think that the term, neutral, is not a term which can be defined with any degree of accuracy. The term neutral, I think, is a term which is used to designate a state of mind, and which is not to be applied to any particular nation or country. The term neutral is a term which is used to designate a state of mind, and which is not to be applied to any particular nation or country. The term neutral is a term which is used to designate a state of mind, and which is not to be applied to any particular nation or country. The term neutral is a term which is used to designate a state of mind, and which is not to be applied to any particular nation or country. The term neutral is a term which is used to designate a state of mind, and which is not to be applied to any particular nation or country. The term neutral is a term which is used to designate a state of mind, and which is not to be applied to any particular nation or country. The term neutral is a term which is used to designate a state of mind, and which is not to be applied to any particular nation or country. The term neutral is a term which is used to designate a state of mind, and which is not to be applied to any particular nation or country. The term neutral is a term which is used to designate a state of mind, and which is not to be applied to any particular nation or country. The term neutral is a term which is used to designate a state of mind, and which is not to be applied to any particular nation or country. The term neutral is a term which is used to designate a state of mind, and which is not to be applied to any particular nation or country. The term neutral is a term which is used to designate a state of mind, and which is not to be applied to any particular nation or country. The term neutral is a term which is used to designate a state of mind, and which is not to be applied to any particular nation or country.
It has been fully explained by the party of the Commonwealth.

Handel. That as we are members of the Convention of the Constitution, the Proceedings of the Convention of the Commonwealth, the Constitution of the United States, and the Constitution of the State of Virginia, we are bound to obey them, and that the Constitution of the State of Virginia is the supreme law of the State, and that the Constitution of the United States is the supreme law of the
