THE OREGON WEEKLY UNION.

VOL. 2.

CORVALLIS, OREGON, SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 3, 1860.

No. 9.

CONGRESSIONAL.

The debates in the United States Senate during the last session of Congress, and the action of the Senate in the absence of Mr. Douglas, with the views and opinions of some of our members, will be found in the following pages.

Mr. Davis.—The clause in which Mr. Douglas was introduced is, I think, perfectly proper, when he holds up, as the differences from the regularity, that gave rise to the additional number of the Speaker's notes on the floor of the House, and in the committee on the Capitol, and I suppose, but I did not give the reasons for the decision of the committee on the Capitol, which was in favor of order, and the Speaker's notes were not taken as the regular practice of the House, but as a matter of convenience.

Mr. Douglas.—It was adopted by the Speaker's notes, and the committee on the Capitol, and I suppose, but I did not give the reasons for the decision of the committee on the Capitol, which was in favor of order, and the Speaker's notes were not taken as the regular practice of the House, but as a matter of convenience.

Mr. Douglas.—I am not aware that any such a proposition has been made.

Mr. Douglas.—The proposition was made by Mr. Davis, of which I did not hear of at the time.

Mr. Douglas.—Well, if I knew that the Speaker's notes were taken as the regular practice of the House, but as a matter of convenience.

Mr. Douglas.—I am not aware that any such a proposition has been made.

Mr. Douglas.—I am not aware that any such a proposition has been made.

Mr. Douglas.—Well, if I knew that the Speaker's notes were taken as the regular practice of the House, but as a matter of convenience.

Mr. Douglas.—I am not aware that any such a proposition has been made.

Mr. Douglas.—Well, if I knew that the Speaker's notes were taken as the regular practice of the House, but as a matter of convenience.
THE OREGON WEEKLY UNION.

TOO MANY.

The political situation in the state of Oregon is now so complex that it is difficult to say what will be the ultimate result. The rivalry between the various parties is intense, and it is to be hoped that the people of the state will remain true to their principles and not be led away by the speculations of the politicians.

THE OREGON WEEKLY UNION.

Wasting.

There is a certain amount of waste in this world, by no means small, but it is not so universal as is generally supposed, and it is to be hoped that the tendency to waste will be checked by the force of public opinion. The waste of time, energy, and material is a national calamity, and it is to be hoped that the tendency to waste will be checked by the force of public opinion.

The Editor.

Our correspondent from the coast reports that the salt-laden schooner has arrived at the port, and that the salt is being unloaded. We are informed that the salt is of good quality, and that the schooner is well equipped for the voyage. We trust that the schooner will arrive safely at its destination, and that the salt will be sold at a fair price.

An Adventure on the Coast.

There is a certain amount of waste in this world, by no means small, but it is not so universal as is generally supposed, and it is to be hoped that the tendency to waste will be checked by the force of public opinion. The waste of time, energy, and material is a national calamity, and it is to be hoped that the tendency to waste will be checked by the force of public opinion.

The Editor.

Our correspondent from the coast reports that the salt-laden schooner has arrived at the port, and that the salt is being unloaded. We are informed that the salt is of good quality, and that the schooner is well equipped for the voyage. We trust that the schooner will arrive safely at its destination, and that the salt will be sold at a fair price.

An Adventure on the Coast.

There is a certain amount of waste in this world, by no means small, but it is not so universal as is generally supposed, and it is to be hoped that the tendency to waste will be checked by the force of public opinion. The waste of time, energy, and material is a national calamity, and it is to be hoped that the tendency to waste will be checked by the force of public opinion.

The Editor.

Our correspondent from the coast reports that the salt-laden schooner has arrived at the port, and that the salt is being unloaded. We are informed that the salt is of good quality, and that the schooner is well equipped for the voyage. We trust that the schooner will arrive safely at its destination, and that the salt will be sold at a fair price.

An Adventure on the Coast.

There is a certain amount of waste in this world, by no means small, but it is not so universal as is generally supposed, and it is to be hoped that the tendency to waste will be checked by the force of public opinion. The waste of time, energy, and material is a national calamity, and it is to be hoped that the tendency to waste will be checked by the force of public opinion.

The Editor.

Our correspondent from the coast reports that the salt-laden schooner has arrived at the port, and that the salt is being unloaded. We are informed that the salt is of good quality, and that the schooner is well equipped for the voyage. We trust that the schooner will arrive safely at its destination, and that the salt will be sold at a fair price.

An Adventure on the Coast.

There is a certain amount of waste in this world, by no means small, but it is not so universal as is generally supposed, and it is to be hoped that the tendency to waste will be checked by the force of public opinion. The waste of time, energy, and material is a national calamity, and it is to be hoped that the tendency to waste will be checked by the force of public opinion.

The Editor.
The Oregon State Convention

The Democracy of Multnomah.

The theory of the democratic party is the same as the theory of every other party, that there is a majority in the body of the people, and that what the majority believe to be the rights of the people must be rights for all. The Democracy of Multnomah sees this truth in all its bearings, and is doing all in its power to have it recognized.

The recent action of the Democratic party in Oregon has been a marked departure from the past. The old, stagnant, unchanging party of the past has been swept away, and in its place there is a new, vigorous, progressive party, which is doing its best to carry out the wishes of the people.

In all the districts of Multnomah, the Democracy of Multnomah has been successful. The people have seen that the Democracy is the party of the people, and have given it their hearty support.

The Oregon Farmer.

The farmers of Oregon are as much interested in the success of the government as any other class of people. They are the backbone of the country, and their interests are as much at stake as those of any other class.

The Oregon Farmer, therefore, will do everything in its power to help the government to succeed. It will work for the advancement of agriculture, and for the benefit of the farmers of the state.

The Oregon Farmer is a weekly newspaper, published in Portland, Oregon. It is published by the Oregon Farmer Publishing Company, and is owned by the farmers of Oregon.

The Oregon Republican.

The Republican party in Oregon is the party of law and order. It is the party of the people, and it is doing its best to carry out the wishes of the people.

The Republican party is the party of the future. It is the party that is going to take Oregon into the twentieth century. It is the party that is going to make Oregon a great state.

The Oregon Republican is a weekly newspaper, published in Portland, Oregon. It is published by the Oregon Republican Publishing Company, and is owned by the Republicans of Oregon.
The least political position in the issue of the Territorial government, but one in which there is a real element of danger, is that of the Territorial Governor. The right of the Governor to interfere with the local government of the Territories is a matter of importance, and one that is likely to be called into question at some future time. In case of a territorial government, the Governor is vested with the power of making laws for the peace, order, and good government of the Territories, and of appointing officers to execute them. The Governor is also vested with the power of vetoing laws passed by the Territorial legislature, and of dissolving it when it becomes necessary. The Governor is, therefore, a powerful authority, and one that is likely to be called into question at some future time. In case of a territorial government, the Governor is vested with the power of making laws for the peace, order, and good government of the Territories, and of appointing officers to execute them. The Governor is also vested with the power of vetoing laws passed by the Territorial legislature, and of dissolving it when it becomes necessary. The Governor is, therefore, a powerful authority, and one that is likely to be called into question at some future time.

The right of the Governor to interfere with the local government of the Territories is a matter of importance, and one that is likely to be called into question at some future time. In case of a territorial government, the Governor is vested with the power of making laws for the peace, order, and good government of the Territories, and of appointing officers to execute them. The Governor is also vested with the power of vetoing laws passed by the Territorial legislature, and of dissolving it when it becomes necessary. The Governor is, therefore, a powerful authority, and one that is likely to be called into question at some future time.

The right of the Governor to interfere with the local government of the Territories is a matter of importance, and one that is likely to be called into question at some future time. In case of a territorial government, the Governor is vested with the power of making laws for the peace, order, and good government of the Territories, and of appointing officers to execute them. The Governor is also vested with the power of vetoing laws passed by the Territorial legislature, and of dissolving it when it becomes necessary. The Governor is, therefore, a powerful authority, and one that is likely to be called into question at some future time.

The right of the Governor to interfere with the local government of the Territories is a matter of importance, and one that is likely to be called into question at some future time. In case of a territorial government, the Governor is vested with the power of making laws for the peace, order, and good government of the Territories, and of appointing officers to execute them. The Governor is also vested with the power of vetoing laws passed by the Territorial legislature, and of dissolving it when it becomes necessary. The Governor is, therefore, a powerful authority, and one that is likely to be called into question at some future time.

The right of the Governor to interfere with the local government of the Territories is a matter of importance, and one that is likely to be called into question at some future time. In case of a territorial government, the Governor is vested with the power of making laws for the peace, order, and good government of the Territories, and of appointing officers to execute them. The Governor is also vested with the power of vetoing laws passed by the Territorial legislature, and of dissolving it when it becomes necessary. The Governor is, therefore, a powerful authority, and one that is likely to be called into question at some future time.