THE ABOLITION FEVER.

The Abolition fever has now assumed much larger proportions than it has ever done before. It has spread from the North and West to the South, and, as it advances, it brings with it a multitude of calamities. The Abolitionists have been at work for years, and they have now succeeded in turning the tide of public opinion against the institution of slavery. The Bible has been cited as a proof of the sinfulness of slavery, and the Abolitionists have succeeded in bringing the religious community into their ranks. The Abolitionists have also succeeded in bringing the scientific community into their ranks, and they have succeeded in bringing the press and the public into their ranks. The Abolitionists have succeeded in bringing the Abolitionists into their ranks, and they have succeeded in bringing the Abolitionists into their ranks. The Abolitionists have succeeded in bringing the Abolitionists into their ranks, and they have succeeded in bringing the Abolitionists into their ranks. The Abolitionists have succeeded in bringing the Abolitionists into their ranks, and they have succeeded in bringing the Abolitionists into their ranks. The Abolitionists have succeeded in bringing the Abolitionists into their ranks, and they have succeeded in bringing the Abolitionists into their ranks. The Abolitionists have succeeded in bringing the Abolitionists into their ranks, and they have succeeded in bringing the Abolitionists into their ranks. The Abolitionists have succeeded in bringing the Abolitionists into their ranks, and they have succeeded in bringing the Abolitionists into their ranks. A TOWARD RECOVERY.

“IT IS ALL OVER,” said a well-known merchant of Portland recently, “there is no more business to be done in this country.”

This is a great mistake. The business is not all over, but it is very much retarded by the present uncertainty in regard to the future.

A merchant who had a large amount of goods on hand, and who was afraid of losing money, said to me the other day, “I wish I could sell my goods, but I cannot.

I don’t know what prices they will fetch, and I don’t know what to expect from the government.
